Share your socials: US to visa seekers

RAHUL DATTA New Delhi

PUBLISHED FROM:

ightening its processes for visa seekers including Indian students and professionals, the US Embassy here on Thursday asked applicants to disclose all social media usernames and handles from the past five years for background checks. The Embassy cautioned violating this could lead to rejection of visas and ineligibility for future visas.

"Visa applicants are required to list all social media usernames or handles of every platform they have used from the last 5 years on the DS-160 visa application form. Applicants certify that the information in their visa application is true and correct before they sign and submit," the Embassy said in a statement on social media. "Omitting social media information could lead to visa denial and ineligibility for future visas," it added.

Outlining each visa adjudication as a "national security decision", the US has asked applicants to reveal their social media usernames or handles of each platform they have used in the last five years.

The US requires visa applicants to provide social media identifiers on application forms. We use all available information for visa screening and vetting

On June 23, the US Embassy asked applicants of F, M, or J non-immigrant visas to switch the privacy settings of their social media accounts to "public" to facilitate vetting, which it said was necessary to establish their identity and admissibility to the US under law.

since 2019, the US has required visa applicants to provide "social media identifiers" on immigrant and non-immigrant visa application forms.

The F visa is primarily for academic students enroled in universities, colleges, or other academic institutions, while the M visa is designated for vocational or non-academic students attending technical or trade schools. It comes against the backdrop of an immigration crackdown by the Trump administration in California's Los Angeles recently.

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh during the SCO Defence Ministers' Meeting in China

DEHRADUN

India skips SCO joint statement

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE New Delhi/Qingdao(China)

xpressing strong displea-sure, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh on Thursday refused to sign a joint communique of the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO) following the omission of the Pahalgam terror attack and not explicitly addressing India's concerns over Pakistan-backed crossborder terrorism.

The draft communique neither figured the Pahalgam terror attack nor reflected India's position on cross-border terrorism, they said.

Rajnath Singh also took a swipe at Pakistan for its relentless support to cross-border terrorism and underlined the need to bring "perpetrators, organisers, financiers and sponsors of terrorism to justice". The SCO operates under the framework of consensus, and Rajnath Singh's refusal to endorse the document resulted in the SCO defence ministers' conclave in Chinese port city Qingdao ending without a joint communique, sources said. Pakistan's Defence Minister Khawaia Asif and Chinese Defence Minister Dong Jun were among those who attended the conclave. Sources said China, which holds the SCO chair, and its "all-weather friend" Pakistan tried to divert the attention from terrorism in the SCO document, skipping any mention of the Pahalgam attack. However, the document mentioned Balochistan, a veiled attempt to accuse India for unrest in Pakistan. Over the years, Pakistan has claimed that India supported the Baloch armed groups in the province. However, India has maintained that it was an internal issue of Pakistan.

The SCO Summit saw the Indian and Pakistani defence ministers come face-to-face for the first time since the Pahalgam attack and Operation Sindoor. The chill was evident as no pleasantries were exchanged with Pakistan Defence Minister Khawaja Asif at the meeting, sources said.

The summit brought together defence leaders from the organisation's ten member States, including China, Russia, Pakistan, and India. Rajnath Singh, meanwhile, in his address criticised Pakistan for its continuing support to cross-border terrorism and underlined the need to bring "perpetrators, organisers, financiers and sponsors of terrorism to justice". "Some countries use cross-border terrorism as an instrument of policy and provide shelter to terrorists. There should be no place for such double standards. The SCO should not hesitate to criticise such nations," he said.

The defence minister, who arrived in Qingdao on Wednesday, laid down the broad contours of India's "transitional shift" in its policy against terrorism and urged the SCO member nations to unite in combating and shun "double standards".

Singh said "Peace and prosperity cannot co-exist with terrorism and proliferation of Weapons of Mass Destruction in the hands of non-State actors and terror groups."

India moves to restrict Indus waters

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE New Delhi

◄he Government is looking to restart the longstalled Tulbul Navigation Project, as part of a broader strategy to optimise the country's share of water from the western rivers under the Indus Waters Treaty (IWT). A detailed project report (DPR) for the Tulbul project is being prepared and is expected to take about a year to complete.

The move comes amidst

Prime Minister Narendra Modi's repeated resolves to use Indus waters for India. The Government is working out a plan to utilise Indus river water for domestic purposes in four States — Rajasthan, Harvana, Himachal Pradesh and Delhi. It is looking to restart the project in the backdrop of the ÎWT being put "under abeyance" following the April 22 Pahalgam terror attack.

In a related development, addressing a press conference, Union Jal Shakti Minister CR Patil on Thursday asserted that political stability in Bangladesh is crucial for any progress on the long-pending Teesta watersharing agreement. Patil's comments come amid concerns over the stalled pact, which has

n a major breakthrough, the Aircraft Accident ▲Investigation Bureau (AAIB) has recovered, downloaded and begun analysing the Cockpit Voice Recorder (CVR) and the Flight Data Recorder (FDR), which together are colloquially known as the Black Box. The black box of Air India 171 was brought from Ahmedabad to Delhi on June 24. This means the probe agencies are now a step closer to understanding why AI 171, Air India's Boeing 787-8 Dreamliner, crashed seconds after take-off.

Providing a detailed update a fortnight after the fatal accident, the Ministry of Civil Aviation shared the status report, amid speculations that the black boxes were damaged in the crash and questions over the recovery of usable data. There were reports that the Government may send black boxes to US to retrieve

"Following the unfortunate accident involving Air India Flight AI-171, the AAIB promptly initiated an investigation and constituted a multidisciplinary team on 13 June led by DG AAIB, and includes an aviation medicine specialist, an ATC officer and representatives from National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB), a US-Government investigative agency, as required for such investigations," the ministry said in a statement on Thursday. The ministry also said on June 24 evening, the team led by AAIB Director General GVG Yugandhar with technical members from AAIB and NTSB began the data extraction process. "The front black box arrived AAIB Lab, Delhi with the DG, AAIB at 1400 hrs on 24 June, 2025. The rear black box was brought by a second AAIB team and reached AAIB Lab, Delhi at 1715 hrs on 24 June, 2025," the statement added. The AAIB Lab was inaugurated in the national capital in April this year.

"The Crash Protection Module (CPM) from the front black box was safely retrieved, and on 25 June, 2025, the memory module was successfully accessed and its data downloaded at the AAIB Lab. The analysis of CVR (Cockpit Voice Recorder) and FDR (Flight Data Recorder) data is underway. These efforts aim to reconstruct the sequence of events leading to the accident and identify contributing factors to enhance aviation safety and prevent future occurrences," the statement added.

CVR data is expected to shed light on cockpit conversations, crew responses, and ambient sounds, while the FDR contains parameters like altitude, airspeed, flight control inputs engine performance.

Air India's Boeing 787-8 aircraft enroute to London Gatwick crashed into a medical hostel complex soon after takeoff from Ahmedabad on June 12, killing over 270 people, including 241 people who were onboard the plane. India, as a signatory to the ICAO Chicago Convention (1944), investigates aircraft accidents in accordance with ICAO (International Civil Aviation Organisation) Annex 13 and the Aircraft (Investigation of Accidents and Incidents) Rules, 2017, the ministry said. Meanwhile, a high-level multi-disciplinary committee, headed by the Union Home Secretary, is examining the causes that led to the Air India plane crash in Ahmedabad, and also suggest comprehensive guidelines to prevent such incidents in the future. The ministry also emphasised that all actions have been taken in full compliance with domestic laws and international obligations in a timebound manner.

Thus, a nationwide exercise was conducted by the EC to identify such RUPPs and 345 such RUPPs have already been identified till now," the poll body said in statement.

The poll body further stated that in order to ensure that

be in Net in Coming Days: CM Mann

MONIKA MALIK CHANDIGARH

unjab Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann on Thursday declared that the war on drugs had entered a decisive phase, with the State Government now going after the masterminds of Punjab's drug trade, not just the foot soldiers. Without naming Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD) leader Bikram Singh Majithia, who was arrested a day earlier by the Vigilance Bureau in a disproportionate assets case linked to laundering over Rs 540 crore alleged drug money, Mann asserted that "more big fish" will be in the net soon in coming days and no one — regardless of power or position - will be

"All this time, they questioned us for not catching the big fish. Now that we have, they're crying political vendetta," said Mann, visibly unflinching in tone. "Those opposing our action are themselves involved. Those backing them are equally guilty and will be brought to book, even if they're party presidents," he said while addressing the media at Chandigarh

Though Majithia's name was never explicitly mentioned during the entire conference, the message was unmistakable. "The action is based on irrefutable, substantive evidence mobiles, laptops, documents, hawala records, and a clear money trail. We have strong cases against 90 percent of the accused, many of whom haven't said, adding that this time, "assi pakke pairi han" (loosely translated as we have indisputable evidence against Majithia).

He warned that more arrests were imminent, hinting at the impending demolition of properties built using drug money. "You will soon see mansions made from drug proceeds being bulldozed," he said, emphasizing that this was not a symbolic campaign but a full-blown offensive to dismantle the drug empire in Punjab. "This isn't just a government drive anymore it's a people's movement. Panchayats are passing resolutions declaring zero tolerance for drug dealers. The houses of smugglers are being razed. This is all being done legally, with solid groundwork," he said.

The Chief Minister also expressed concern for his own safety, indicating that the crackdown had rattled powerful networks. "They may want to harm me. But I am not afraid. I've lived twice the age of Bhagat Singh. If I lose my life in the process of paign was carefully planned and is now showing results," he Brushing aside the allegations of political vendetta, Mann cited SAD's humiliating defeat in the Ludhiana West bypoll, where it polled just 8,000 votes. "This is not vendetta. Had earlier governments acted properly, these people would already be behind bars. But they were watching each other's backs," he said.

Responding to reports that Majithia's arrest was linked to fresh financial trails, Mann confirmed that hawala transactions worth crores had surfaced recently. "We received multiple complaints, but waited until we had clinching evidence. We will go after every person responsible — whether they are politicians, officers or well-connected individuals."

Mann reaffirmed his commitment to the people of Punjab, reiterating that those responsible for pushing drugs into society will be exposed and punished People sold their land to send children abroad just to save them from drugs. We will reverse this. We'll build a Rangla Punjab where youth dream big, not fall prey to addiction," he asserted.

Concluding, Mann called the campaign 'Yudh Nasheyan Virudh' — a war against narcotics — saying that its success lies in public participation. "People call us now saying the cartel is broken. That's the change. This mission has gained momentum. This is AAP versus all — and the people are with us," ■aking a step toward industrial reform and administrative efficiency, the Punjab Cabinet on Thursday approved two crucial policies the conversion of leasehold industrial plots to freehold, and permission for change in land use (CLU) of industrial plots for non-industrial purposes. These longawaited measures are expected to unlock economic potential across the state's industrial belts.

The state's New and Renewable Energy Minister Aman Arora, addressing the media alongside Industry Minister Tarunpreet Singh Sond after the Cabinet meeting, said that these reforms were introduced in response to persistent demands from industrialists and entrepreneurs. "These decisions will simplify business operations, boost investment, and generate significant revenue for the state," said Arora.

Under the revised policy, industrial plots between 1,000 and 4,000 square vards can now be utilized for commercial ventures such as hotels, hospitals, hostels, and convention centres – a shift from the previous restriction to purely industrial activity. Additionally, plots of 40,000 square yards or more can be developed into industrial parks, with 60 percent area reserved for industrial purposes, 30 percent for residential use, and 10 percent for commercial development. All such plots will be treated as freehold, ensuring ownership clarity and ease of

For leasehold plots allotted by the Punjab Small Industries and Export Corporation (PSIEC), the Cabinet approved their conversion to freehold at a nominal rate of Rs 20 per square yard. This move is expected to fetch over Rs 1,000 crore for the state while reducing litigation and ambiguity in property dealings. A conversion charge of 12.5 percent of the industrial reserve price will be applicable for freehold plots seeking change in land

The Cabinet also gave its nod to amendments in the MSE Facilitation Council Rules-2021, under the MSME Development Act. Going forward, awards related to delayed payments to micro and small enterprises can be recovered as arrears of land revenue under the Punjab Land Revenue Act-1887, ensuring faster resolution of payment disputes.

In a move to enhance administrative efficiency and reduce redundant expenditure, the Cabinet approved the merger of various directorates under the Finance Department. The Directorates of Small Savings, Banking and Finance, and Lotteries will now function as a single unit named the 'Directorate of Small Savings, Banking and Lotteries'.

Similarly, DPED and DFREI will be merged into the Directorate of Public Enterprises and Financial Resources. Treasury and Accounts, Pensions, and NPS will also be consolidated under the Directorate of Treasury and Accounts, Pensions and NPS. This restructuring is projected to save the state Rs 2.64 crore

To operationalize the newly established State SNA Treasury in Chandigarh — mandated under Government of India guidelines for centrally-sponsored schemes, the Cabinet approved the creation of nine posts, including a District Treasury Officer, Treasury Officer, two Senior Assistants, four Clerks, and one Peon.

Further, the Cabinet amended service rules for Group-B Junior Engineers in the Water Resources Department. Canal Patwaris and Revenue Clerks holding diplomas or degrees in Civil, Mechanical, or Electrical Engineering will now be eligible for promotion under the 10 percent reserved quota - a move aimed at recognizing fieldlevel experience and encouraging skill upgradation.

When asked about the Common Eligibility Test (CET), he said that this time, 13.48 lakh youth have registered for the CET, compared to about 11 lakh registrations last year. He said that there were some issues due to heavy load on the SARAL portal; however, over 3 lakh youth from the BC-A and BC-B categories, as well as around 3 lakh Scheduled Caste youth, successfully downloaded their caste certificates and registered for the exam. He further said that youth who were unable to download their caste certificates will still be allowed to appear in the exam, and the remaining formalities will be completed concurrently. In response to a question, Saini said that the departments have been instructed to rationalize posts based on current requirements and send the requisition letters to the Haryana Staff Selection Commission (HSSC). He said that some existing posts are no longer necessary, while new posts are being creat ed to meet present-day needs. He emphasized that this is a continuous and ongoing process.

When asked about the ongoing strike by students of Chaudhary Charan Singh Haryana Agricultural University, Hisar, the Chief Minister said, "They are all our children, and this is the time for them to focus on their studies. They should not be misled by political parties." He urged political parties to refrain from instigating students, emphasizing that while it is commendable for youth to take an interest in politics, their current priority should be education.

AAP-SAD SUPPORTERS CLASH OUTSIDE MOHALI COURT

hiromani Akali Dal (SAD) leader and Punjab's former Minister Bikram Singh Majithia was sent to seven days of police remand by a Mohali court on Thursday in connection with a high-profile disproportionate assets and money laundering case, allegedly linked to Rs 540 crore drug money. The Vigilance Bureau, which had arrested Majithia from his Amritsar residence a day earlier, sought 12 days of custody, but the court granted seven after a prolonged hearing.

Presented under tight security, Majithia's appearance created chaos outside the court premises, with Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) and SAD supporters clashing in heated protests. Police detained over two dozen SAD workers, including senior leaders like former Minister Daljit Singh Cheema, as they attempted to rally outside the court in Majithia's support. Cheema called the entire case "politically motivated" and accused the state government of "The security arrangements made it seem like Majithia is some terrorist," said Simranjit Singh Chandumaira, associated with SAD rebel faction 'Sudhar Lehar', condemning the heavy police presence.

public prosecutor made serious allegations. He told the judge that Majithia had failed to explain assets worth Rs 540 crore, which were far in excess of his known income. "There are bank entries showing Rs 286 crore in transactions, but only Rs 125 crore is recorded in official accounts — leaving a gap of Rs 161 crore unaccounted for," the prosecutor said. "In another case, Rs 236 crore was deposited in company accounts during Majithia's ministerial tenure, but there is no explanation in the directed intimidating remarks toward Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann during his transit from Amritsar to Mohali - details that were brought to the court's attention while seeking remand. Majithia's lawyer strongly contested the remand, calling the case baseless and accusing the state of hatching a conspiracy against the senior leader. "This is nothing but vendetta. They want to silence the opposition by using state machinery," he argued.

The courtroom proceedings brought work in the complex to a halt for several hours as security was ramped up, and move-intensified. While SAD workers shouted slogans against the government, AAP supporters countered with placards and chants demanding strict punishment for those responsible for pushing Punjab's youth into drugs. The heavy police deployment eventually dispersed both groups, and some protestors were taken away in police buses. The case is now set for its next on the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) Government in Punjab, SAD on Thursday accused it of misusing state agencies to frame senior leader Bikram Singh Majithia in a disproportionate assets case without any preliminary or regular inquiry. Addressing a press conference in Amritsar, senior SAD leaders Balwinder Singh Bhundar, Maheshinder Singh Grewal, and Daljit Singh Cheema termed the arrest politically motivated. "This case is a clear attempt to silence Majithia and divert attention from the AAP government's failed anti-drug campaign, Yudh Nashean Virudh," said Grewal, adding that no formal complaint or evidence supports the Rs 540 crore figure cited in the case.

Grewal dismissed the allegations as baseless, claiming that the listed properties have been in the Majithia family long before Bikram Majithia was born. "The family's wealth predates his political career. The government has fabricated a case for political mileage," he said while highlighting that Majithia had resigned as director of Saraya Industries in 2007, distancing himself from the company's decisions.

Cheema added that the same allegations had earlier been submitted to the Supreme Court during a plea to cancel Majithia's bail in the NDPS case, but the court had not taken cognizance. He further criticized the Mohali court security, likening it to a "curfew-like situation" that inconvenienced litigants. Bhundar compared the developments to the Emergency era, calling it a "murder of democracy". He alleged that the AAP Government had been pressuring officials for over three years to implicate Majithia and thanked opposition parties for their support in "exposing the political vendetta."

NIA Raids 9 Locations in Punjab in Ongoing Terror Conspiracy Probe

PNS CHANDIGARH

≺he National Investigation Agency (NIA) on Thursday conducted coordinated raids at multiple locations across Punjab, including Jalandhar and Hoshiarpur, as part of an ongoing investigation into a larger terror conspiracy case aimed at reviving militancy in the state.

According to the officials, searches were carried out at six to seven locations in Punjab part of a broader operation involving 18 raids across Punjab, Haryana, and Uttar Pradesh. The action is linked to a suspected terror module allegedly connected to pro-Khalistani networks and gangsters with foreign links, who are believed to be orchestrating targeted killings, extortion, and arms smuggling to destabilize the state.

In Jalandhar, the NIA team, assisted by local police, reached the posh Friends Colony area around 7 am and interrogated a tenant staying in a rented house. The homeowner is currently abroad. During the operation, officials seized documents and digital devices.

Looming water crisis: Act now or pay the price later

With demand poised to outstrip supply by 2030. Water emergency is not a distant threat, it is already unfolding n India we have taken natural resources for granted. We care little about them but exploit them to hilt realising little that these resources are limited and if not consumed in a responsible way would perish faster than we can imagine. India today stands on the brink of a monumental water crisis that threatens to derail its economic progress, destabilise food security, and imperil public health. Despite housing 18 per cent of the world's population, India holds only 4 per cent of its freshwater resources.

NITI Aayog's 2018 Composite Water Management Index had already sounded the alarm - 600 million Indians are living under high to extreme water stress. By 2030, demand could double the available supply. Yet, despite the growing evidence, the country continues to respond with fragmented policies and piecemeal solutions. The roots of this crisis are deep and multi-layered.

One of the primary causes is the grossly unequal distribution of water across the country. While some states struggle with devastating floods, others face year-round droughts. Climate change has intensified this disparity. Adding to this challenge is India's overwhelming dependence on groundwater. Excessive extraction has pushed India to become the world's largest user of groundwater. Replenishment rates simply cannot keep up. Climate change has transformed the water equation from a future threat to a present crisis. Erratic rainfall patterns have made agriculture precarious. The shrinking glaciers have further led to the shortage of water across storage systems. Glaciers in the Himalayas - the lifeline of rivers like the Ganga and Indus — are melting at alarming rates.

The contamination of water sources presents an equally serious challenge. The 2024 Annual Groundwater Quality Report revealed that 70 per cent of India's water is contaminated, with arsenic and fluoride contaminating drinking water for over 230 million people across 19 states. Untreated sewage and industrial waste continue to choke rivers, rendering them unfit for use. The toll on public health is staggering. According to NITI Aayog, nearly 200,000 lives are lost each year to waterborne diseases — a tragedy that is preventable. Cities like Bengaluru, Chennai, and Delhi have already experienced water crises of a scale once thought unimaginable. According to NITI Aayog, 21 Indian cities could exhaust their groundwater by 2030, impacting over 100 million people. There is, however, a way forward. But it requires systemic transformation. Integrated Water Resource Management (IWRM) must become the norm rather than the exception. Water cannot be viewed in isolation - it is intricately connected with energy, agriculture, climate, and health. National policies must reflect this reality. Nature-based solutions like wetland restoration need to be scaled up alongside cutting-edge technologies such as real-time monitoring and water accounting systems that can track usage and redistribute resources more equitably. A water-secure India is the bedrock of economically vibrant, and socially just future. The consequences of inaction will be huge. What remains to be seen is whether India will rise to the challenge.

Karakoram anomaly: Relook Indus Water Treaty

With India suspending the Indus Waters Treaty (IWT), the abeyance of the IWT, combined with a renewed focus on harnessing water resources from the western rivers, signals a decisive policy shift regarding natural resource sharing slamabad's preference for terror on India's civilian and armed forces using ISItrained terrorists, as compared to the belief in conventional warfare has misfired after the Pahalgam terror attack on April 22nd, where 26 civilians, mostly tourists including a Nepalese national lost their lives. Immediately after the attack India expelled Pakistani nationals, reduced its diplomatic presence and kept the Indus Water Treaty (IWT) in abeyance. In response to the April 22nd attack, India launched Operation Sindoor in the wee hours of May 7th, and hit and decimated terrorist infrastructures at nine locations — five in PoK and four in Pakistan's Punjab province including Muridke and Bahawalpur, the headquarters of two major terrorist organisations Lashkar-e-Taiba or Jaish-e-Mohammed.

The operation also resulted in the killing of more than a hundred terrorists in these camps. Pakistan's response using Turkey and Chinesemade weapons was foiled and in four days of conflict, considerable damage was inflicted on Pakistan's eleven airbases and air defence system. Even after the ceasefire was announced at 5.35 pm on May 10th, IWT continued to be kept under abeyance. Two countries have fought several wars and India has faced many terrorist attacks orchestrated by our neighbour, but it is for the first time since 1960 that IWT has been suspended. A permanent cost has been inflicted on Pakistan for the misadventure. In recent years India has been seeking bilateral modification of IWT. The treaty signed in 1960 divides six rivers of the basin between the two. Indus, Jhelum and Chenab are the western rivers allocated to Pakistan, while Ravi, Beas and Sutlei are the eastern rivers allocated to India. Further, the treaty allocated 80 per cent of water for Pakistan and only 20 per cent for the upper riparian state, India. No other water treaty in the world has ignored an upper riparian state like this and has been the most generous treaty favouring the lower riparian state. The treaty also did not take into account global warming, climate change issues and environmental impact assessment, as brought out in the departmentally related Standing Committee report 2021.

While the treaty was operational, Pakistan has continuously objected to India's hydroelectric projects. In recent years, the objections to the Kishenganga and Ratle hydroelectric projects are for anyone to take note of. With such baseless objections, Pakistan moved International Court of Justice, Hague, which is quite irksome and hampers our growth. Further, it is challenging for the union territory of Jammu and Kashmir to progress economically. Reports have substantiated that UT suffered hundreds of millions of rupees annually due to IWT. Sixty-five years into the treaty, climate change has altered the scenario considerably. The glaciers located on the eastern side that feed water to Sutlej, Beas and Ravi rivers are at relatively lower altitudes as compared to the glaciers in the Karakoram mountain ranges that feed water to western rivers namely Indus, Jhelum and Chenab. The glaciers at lower altitudes are losing mass at higher rate and are retreating faster.

In higher Karakoram mountain ranges, laciers are not losing masses, and are relativestable. In the scientific community, it is called the 'Karakoram anomaly'. From the depleted glacier mass there has been a considerable reduction in the flow of water in the eastern rivers namely Sutlej, Beas and Ravi. This has impacted water availability for irrigation and power generation in the Indian states of Punjab and Rajasthan, as well as in the UT of J&K. Thus, despite IWT allocated 20 per cent water share for India, we got only 5 per cent. 'Karakoram anomaly' is termed as the stability or the anomalous growth of glaciers in central Karakoram, in contrast to the retreat of glaciers in other nearby mountainous ranges of the Himalayas and other ranges of the World. Studies have highlighted the role of temperature in establishing and sustaining the anomaly over the years. Western disturbances are the primary feeder of the snowfall for the region in winter. It has also been found in the study that 53 per cent of precipitation and 65 per cent of snowfall in the region is powered by western disturbances. This has resulted in an increase of precipitation intensity in the Karakoram ranges by 10 per cent in the last two decades. This explains the role of Western disturbances in sustaining the anomaly. In other words, the flow of water in western rivers namely the Indus, Jhelum and Chenab is sustainable and may increase by 10 per cent, while that in eastern rivers Ravi, Beas and Sutlej shows a depleting trend. Given scientific findings, IWT must change.Post Pahalgam, PM Modi has reiterated that the treaty will remain suspended till our neighbour stops supporting terrorism in all forms and manifestations.

Especially given the 'Karakoram anomaly' owing to climate change, IWT in its present form cannot be revived, even if Pakistan supports terrorism. PM Modi has directed officials to expedite the planning and execution of projects on the Chenab, Jhelum and Indus rivers. The central Government has also committed to fast-track environmental clearances of all pending and proposed projects in the Indus River basin in I&K to utilise the maximum amount of water from the river system. Canals on Chenab are also being planned to be extended to cover more areas for irrigation. Uri Stage II, Kirthal-II and Sawalkot projects are for the generation of power and also for irrigating agricultural fields, and are already listed for single window clearance. The work on the Tulbul navigation barrage in the Wullar Lake in north Kashmir, essential for providing navigation in the Jhelum river, was suspended in the 1980s, under pressure from Pakistan, but can now be revived. After keeping IWT in abeyance, India released water from the Baglihar and Salal dams for the desiltation of reservoirs. This caused swelling of the Chenab River and flooding in Pakistan.

After completion of de-siltation, the gates are closed, disrupting the agriculture sowing/paddy transplant in Pakistan's Punjab and Sindh

Even India is not obliged to share rainfall data now. Pakistan has come up with another bluff, saying that China in a similar way can stop Brahmaputra water, where India is the lower riparian state. China can never punish us in that way. The Brahmaputra originates in the Angsi glacier in Tibet and flows through China as Yarlung Tsangpo before entering India's Arunachal Pradesh. It is called Siang and Dibang in Arunachal Pradesh and Brahmaputra in Assam and Bangladesh. China has already announced the building of a hydropower dam on Yarlung Tsangpo, but Indian experts opined that it cannot cut the flow of water in Brahmaputra. IDSA's peerreviewed data suggests that even during lean periods Yarlung Tsangpo's annual outflow from China is far lower than Brahmaputra's total discharge in India. Assam CM Hemanta Bishwa Sarmah recently responded to this bluff and posted on X, "Brahmaputra is not a river India depends on upstream — it is a rain-fed Indian river system, strengthened after enter-ng Indian territory." Only 30 to 35 per cent flow is fed by glacier melting and some rainfall in Tibet in Chinese territory and the remaining 65 to 70 per cent is fed from Indian monsoon through the rivers Subansiri, Lohit, Kameng, Manas, Dhansiri, Jia-Bharali, Kopili, Krishnan, Digaru and Kulsi in the catchments spread in Arunachal Pradesh, Assam, Nagaland and Meghalaya. Any Chinese upstream intervention will have no impact on India.

Telangana's fight against child labour recent report on child labour rescues has found that Telangana outpaced all other states in pulling children out of unlawful employment in 2024–25. Of the 53,651 children rescued in India during this period, 11,063 were given a new lease of life in Telangana. The state not only carried out the most number of rescue operations in the country but it also topped the list of arrests made against the offenders.

While this is good news for all the vulnerable children rescued from exploitative work, their lives will still be in limbo in the absence of appropriate rehabilitation. This crucial task may be an easier one for Telangana as it already has a successful rehabilitation roadmap, thanks to MV Foundation, the Hyderabad-based, not-for-profit, which has managed to withdraw over one million children from work. By mainstreaming them into formal schools, MVF has also made 1500 villages child-labour-free. This is no mean achievement. The cornerstone of their success has been their belief that any child out of school should be considered a child labourer and that school and education were the only options for eliminatducted in each of the intervention villages. Villagers were ing experience, also joined her there. One of them was often taken aback to see a sari-clad lady outside their homes asking about their children. But Shantha Sinha, be allowed to join the RBC, ran away without informing founder trustee MVF and Magsaysay awardee for her work to eliminate child labour, had no compunctions in sitting on the floor of their homes to persuade them to send their children to school. This personalised approach helped in facilitating permission for their children to attend residential bridge course camps (RBC).

These provide short-term intensive education programmes to help children who had dropped out of school to work or those who had never been to school, fill their knowledge gaps. Then they are mainstreamed into government schools.

Establishing Child Rights Protection forums comprising the community, parents, local panchayat members and school teachers, ensures children enrolled stay in school. Had it not been for this house-to-house survey, 11-yearold Amritha would have continued to work with her family as agricultural labourers.

She was reconciled to going to sleep most of the nights on an empty stomach. But her life changed when MVF came to her village to spread awareness about education. They motivated her parents to send her to the RBC.

ing child labour. The model adopted to reach this goal is When it became known that Amritha had gone to the camp, five other children, who heard about the life-chang-working at a roadside eatery and afraid that he wouldn't his employer. He walked 10 km to catch a train to the MVF camp. The MVF approach has given hundreds of children a chance at second childhood by fostering a sense of community ownership to ensure the elimination of child labour. This has provided support for a large number of such children to go beyond primary schooling. Many of them have achieved their dream of becoming doctors, lawyers, engineers and media personalities. Equally vulnerable to exploitation are those reported missing as they too are at risk of being trapped in working in dangerous trades.

Over 11,400 children were reported as missing in 2024-25, according to India Child Protection, a voluntary organisation, that prepared the report on child labour rescues in conjunction with Just Rights for Children, a civil society network of over 250 organisations working in coordination with law enforcement agencies to combat child labour and trafficking. Although a large number of these missing children have been found, they face similar challenges of rehabilitation. Adapting the community-based, child-protection approach to mainstream them back to school could be life-changing for all these children.

Restored Sholay to premiere in Italy

The iconic Bollywood classic Sholay will screen in its original, uncut form — including its long-lost climax and deleted scenes — at the prestigious Il Cinema Ritrovato Festival in Bologna, Italy, this Friday, June 27, 2025.

The film will be showcased on a grand open-air screen at Piazza Maggiore, the city's historic central square. This restored version is the result of painstaking efforts by the Mumbai-based Film Heritage Foundation, led by Shivendra Singh Dungarpur, in collaboration with India's National Film Archive and international restoration experts. The screening marks the world premiere of the restored Sholay, offering global audiences a rare glimpse of Ramesh Sippy's vision as it was originally conceived.

As it will subsequently screen in Indian theatres, its changed ending will disturb the five-decades-formed image in the audience, giving relief to some while it may not affect the new generation. Indeed, it is a proud moment for film

Tripura becomes fully literate state

Tripura has become the third fully literate state after Mizoram and Goa. In 1961 Tripura's literacy rate was 20.24 per cent; in 2011 it reached 87.22 per cent.

For the last decade or so, Tripura's literacy rate was more than 90 per cent, but it was lagging behind on some parameters; hence, it could not attain fully literate state status earlier.

It is to be noted that any state acquires this status once it reaches more than 95 per cent literacy rate. But we need to dig deeper and introspect as to why it took so long — precisely more than six decades for a population of 40 lakh people of Tripura to achieve this feat. Mediocrity is so ingrained in our blood that we do not aim for high goals and accept tortoise-pace growth as a way of life. This thinking has to change.

Hopefully, other states can take a cue from Tripura and keep promoting learning to all their citizens and take help of digital mediums to reach this level and attain full literacy. Collaborating with NGOs can also help the cause to bridge the digital gulf between rural and urban as education has to reach the remotest village in the country. Tripura's achievement of full literacy is commendable, but the six-decade journey for a small state signals deeper systemic complacency.

India's complacency cost it the match

SWAPNA MAJUMDAR

Anyone imagined that after having scored five centuries three in the first innings and two in the second — can any team suffer a loss when they have put up a formidable 371 for the opponent to chase in the fourth innings in a Test match? Indeed, team India has now become the first team in the 148 years of Test cricket history to face such an unexpected defeat against England at Headingley sheerly by their complacency in their approach, by the slipshod fielding of dropping as many catches and a mediocre bowling attack.

Little the skipper Shubman Gill tried to rotate the bowlers and solely depending on Jasprit Bumrah won't pave the way for the team to come victorious all the time; this never happens must be realised. Only the individual records were the highlight: Skipper Shubman Gill rose up to his captaincy debut and his deputy Rishab Pant scored two brilliant tons back-to-back in the same Test — all went in vain at the end for India's own fault. KL Rahul's extraordinary ton in the second innings was not utilised in their failed attempt to dismiss England when the target set was reasonable enough to grab a victory. In a way it was a gifted match by India while Yashasvi Jaiswal dropped four catches, which includes a costly one of Ben Duckett on 97, whom England relied much upon to score in a fast-paced strategy which worked in their favour as Duckett went on to reach 149.

MAMATA'S BOLD QUESTION SPARKS DEBATE ON DISCRIMINATION

No kudos is enough for Mamata Banerjee for asking the most relevant and burning question in a straightforward way whether speaking the language of Rabindranath Tagore and Swami Vivekananda has become an "offence" in the "Double Engine" states ("Is speaking Bengali an offence: CM Mamata Banerjee asks BJP?", June 25)! Yes, just speaking Bangla (language of India's National Anthem and National Song) and hailing from Bengal (land of Khudiram Bose, Surya Sen, Netaji and innumerable other valiant bravehearts selflessly sacrificing their all for the sake of Indian independence) are enough "excuse" for according such stepmotherly treatment to the Bengalis in their very own country, now dubbed "New India"!

At first the hard-working migrant labourers from Bengal were getting heckled by the goons from Odisha to Rajasthan and often compelled to leave the concerned states without their belongings and unpaid wages, and this ugly phenomenon has increased in deadly proportions recently! Also they are regularly being summoned by the police or detained for days in the name of "interrogation" and "identification"! But now the situation has attained such a height of absurdity that many of them have been "pushed" into Bangladesh by the security force of India! Have the hapless souls committed a "quintuple sin" of sorts - hailing from Bengal, speaking Bangla, professing Islam and daring to venture to "Double Engine" states for earning an honest livelihood!

And if their "authenticity" as an Indian citizen gets questioned despite possession of Aadhar and EPIC, then immediately the Government must declare that these cards have no legal value and stop demanding the former right from pregnancy cases in hospital to the crematorium!

Drug abuse and illicit trafficking: The role of RPF under the NDPS act

On this International Day Against Drug Abuse and Illicit Trafficking, RPF stands as a vigilant and evolving Force, committed to securing the lifelines of the nation from the scourge of drugs. RPF is not only protecting the Indian Railways but also fortifying the nation's resolve against narcotics trafficking very year, June 26 is observed as the International Day Against Drug Abuse and Illicit Trafficking, serving as a global reminder of the need to combat one of the most serious threats not only to human health and safety but also to the future of humanity. As India faces increasing challenges related to the rising consumption of narcotics in the younger sections of our population due to the easy availability of narcotics, the Indian Railways, and RPF have resolved not to allow the railways to be used by narcotics smugglers for their nefarious designs.

Since the Indian Railways, due to its vast network and high passenger volume, was beginning to emerge as a significant conduit for narco-trafficking, a major development occurred in 2019 when the Government of India empowered the Railway Protection Force (RPF) under the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances (NDPS) Act, 1985. This authorisation enabled the RPF to search for and seize narcotics being transported through the railway network, thereby strengthening efforts to combat narcotics trafficking across Indian Railways. This decision aligned with the Government of India's comprehensive "whole-of-government approach" in the war against narcotics, reinforcing the RPF's role in national security beyond its traditional duties.

RPF's Mandate under the NDPS Act

The grant of authority under the NDPS Act enabled the RPF to act not only as a custodian of railway property but also as a proactive law enforcement agency in the domain of narcotics control. The large and relatively unmonitored railway ecosystem-characterised by open-access platforms, high-frequency passenger movement, and vast geographical spread-was being increasingly exploited by traffickers to move contraband, particularly Ganja, and this timely decision has brought about a transformational change.

Notable achievements of RPF in controlling the drug menace

In the year 2024 alone, RPF undertook a record number of operations resulting in over 1700 contraband seizure cases involving significant quantities of contraband articles. Big Seizures and Operational Successes of RPF during 2024-25 include:

1. On 01.03.2024, in a joint operation with DRI Tuticorin & Madurai teams, RPF/Madurailed to the seizure of 31.5 kg of Methamphetamine worth ₹150 crore from a passenger on Pothigai Express (Train No. 12661) during a targeted operation

2. On 08.05.2025, at Nabadwip Dham Railway Station (ER), a joint team seized 1.03 kg of Brown Sugar worth ₹4 crore during a surveillance operation based on intelligence generated by STF Kolkata.

3. On 19.06.2025, at Sealdah Station (ER), a routine RPF check led to the recovery of 3.14 kg Morphine and 3.198 kg Heroin, valued at ₹3.35 crore. The seized quantity was later handed over to

4. On 05.12.2024, at Burhwal Station (NER), a joint operation intercepted two women aboard a train with 11 kg Charas worth ₹5.5 crore which was being transported from Sugauli to Kota.

5. On 05.03.2025, a joint RPF-GRP team recovered 24.39 kg of Charasvalued at ₹6 crore in unclaimed backpacks at Sagauli Railway Station (ECR).

6. On 26.03.2025, in Varanasi Station (NR), a checking operation on Tapti Ganga Express led to the seizure of 10 kg Charas, valued at ₹5 crore, from an unattended bag.

The RPF seized contrabands valued at over ₹227.5 crore in 2024, contributing 1.34 per cent to the overall seizure quantity in the country. RPF has also arrested 1489 traffickers during the year. This significant recovery marks a noteworthy addition to the collective efforts towards building a Drug-Free India.

The outcome of the targeted and successful operations and seizures underscore RPF's evolving capabilities and intelligence-led policing approach.

Emerging patterns

An analysis of drug trafficking patterns on the Indian Railway network has revealed distinct smuggling corridors and modus operandi of traffickers. The North-Eastern Corridor (Lumding-Arunachal) acts as a critical source route for cannabis cultivation and transportation. Eastern-Central-Southern Routes (Odisha to Southern States) facilitate the movement of narcotics from Odisha to high consumption — demand centres such as Bengaluru, Hyderabad, Chennai, Kochi and Mumbai. Major cities act as the primary endpoints of the trafficking network, where narcotics are distributed through local networks, making them the urban consumption hubs. The affordability of Ganja, combined with its recreational nature, makes it one of the most commonly trafficked narcotics via railways. The contraband is often packed in bulk quantities and concealed ingeniously in passenger and freight luggage.

Learnings and Strategic Insights

From years of tracking illicit narcotics movements while actively pursuing the role of Sentinels of Indian Railways, RPF has developed key learnings in the domain. Traffickers rely on anonymity provided by general class compartments and unreserved ticketing. Night trains and long-distance express trains are frequently misused due to the reduced presence of uniformed personnel at night time. Concealment techniques have become increasingly sophisticated, necessitating enhanced detection methods. Youth and vulnerable populations in urban centres are primary targets for drug consumption, fueling demand.

Capacity Building and RPF's Commitment

RPF has taken concrete steps to build institutional capacity to tackle narcotics trafficking. Specially trained dog squads are now deployed at major railway stations and are actively participating in targeted operations. RPF personnel undergo intensive training on NDPS provisions, detection methods, and procedural law and inter-agency coordination in collaboration with the Narcotics Control Bureau (NCB). Data analytics and crime pattern analysis have led to the systematic mapping of drug routes and the identification of vulnerable trains. Cooperation with NCB, State Police and Intelligence Agencies has led to a productive partnership based on real-time intelligence sharing and the constitution of joint taskforces for action. This progress directly reflects the Union Home Minister's strategic directive that combines top-down guidance and bottom-up implementation, ensuring uniform policy application with local adaptability.

Challenges and the Road Ahead

Despite the success stories, several challenges remain. The need for more resources including narcotic detection equipment and canine units, slow judicial processes under NDPS hindering deterrence, rapid changes in trafficking routes and methods, cross-border smuggling through the porous borders of the country, and imperatives of passenger privacy is a vissurveillance concern which demands balancing individual rights with stringent checks etc needs systematic and concentrated approach to be addressed effectively.

To counter these challenges, enforcement agencies must continue to leverage advanced technological solutions such as Artificial Intelligence and scanning systems with pattern recognition capabilities for route and passenger profiling, thereby enabling predictive policing in the detection of drugs and narcotics. Community sensitisation programs to generate public awareness are essential to address the issue of consumption. The canine force is the backbone of any Force involved in the detection of narcotics, but it has its operational limitations. Possible technology solutions to enhance detection need to be explored in the field. Further, the human capabilities in the field demand capacity augmentation through specialised training and intervention in the domain.

The Indian Railways handles a substantial quantity of parcel traffic through the Seating cum Luggage Rake (SLR) vans of long-distance passenger trains. At present the contents of the parcel are not being scanned through X-ray scanners. Realizing the possibility of utilisation of parcel traffic for drug trafficking, Indian Railways has started the process of installing large-sized baggage scanners at important railway stations.

A-Pillar in the Whole-of-Government Fffort

The RPF's contribution to narcotics control is not an isolated initiative but a net addition and an important part of the Government of India's integrated anti-drug effort. Its success exemplifies the whole-of-government approach, working in unison with central and state agencies to safeguard national security and public health. On this International Day Against Drug Abuse and Illicit Trafficking, RPF stands as a vigilant and evolving Force, committed to securing the lifelines of the nation from the scourge of drugs. By recognising patterns, enhancing capabilities, and strengthening inter-agency collaboration, RPF is not only protecting the Indian Railways but also fortifying the nation's resolve against narcotics trafficking in the years to come.

MSME Day: Celebrating the backbone of sustainable growth and innovation une 27 is MSME Day. It is a day dedicated to celebrating the significance and achievements of Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs). In 2017, the United Nations (UN) designated this day to recognise the vital role of MSMEs in promoting innovation, job creation, and sustainable economic growth. MSME Day highlights the need for ongoing support and innovation to help these enterprises thrive in a changing global environment.

The UN estimates indicate that MSMEs are the cornerstone of economic growth worldwide, accounting for 90 per cent of global businesses, 60-70 per cent of employment and 50 per cent of the world's gross domestic product (GDP).

The World Bank notes that 60 crore jobs will be needed by 2030 to absorb the growing global workforce, which makes MSME development a high priority for many Governments around the world. Furthermore, in emerging markets, most formal jobs are generated by Small and Medium Enterprises, which create 7 out of 10 jobs.

In India, MSME Day is particularly significant. The country has over 6.5 crore registered MSMEs, contributing 31 per cent to the GDP and 45 per cent to total exports, employing more than 28 crore people. Today, MSMEs are omnipresent, traversing all sectors from Charkha to Chandrayaan.

They are spread over variegated sectors, stretching from retail trade to repair of computers, from food and beverage services to land transport, from the manufacturing of apparel to manufacturing of furniture, from pharmaceuticals to tourism, from khadi and village industries to literally catapulting Missions into space by manufacturing aerospace components. Accordingly, these enterprises get covered by schemes and policies of different administrative Ministries of the Central Government, accentuating the essence of the Whole of Government approach.

ISHITA G TRIPATHY

The theme of this year's MSME Day is 'Enhancing the role of MSMEs as drivers of Sustainable Growth and Innovation'. This underscores both the relevance of the sector and its potential role in meeting the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

It is a well-known fact that the definition of MSMEs followed across the world is not uniform. While some countries follow an asset-based definition, MSMEs in some other countries are identified in terms of their employment. In 2020, India became one of the countries that adopted twin criteria based on investment in plant and machinery and turnover of enterprises to classify them as MSMEs. The overall ceiling for MSMEs was ₹50 crore for investment and ₹250 crore for turnover. To allay apprehensions of losing entitlements related to MSMEs, from 1st April 2025, the ceilings were raised to ₹125 crore and ₹500 crore for investment and turnover, respectively. The Indian MSME sector is also unique in its recognition and purposeful formalisation of informal micro-enterprises.

The closest proxy measure of

The closest proxy measure of the universe of MSMEs is the number of non-agricultural unincorporated enterprises estimated by the Ministry of Statistics and Programme Implementation's Annual Survey of Unincorporated Enterprises ANURADHA (ASUSE). The latest report GURU of ASUSE of January 2025 estimates 7.34 crore such enterprises. Since 1st April 2023, the number of formalised enterprises has grown fourfold, to 6.5 crore. The effort to bridge the formalisation gap is discernible. Formalisation extends the twin benefits of providing an identity to the enterprise and creating entitlements for it because of its MSME status. Enterprises registered on the Udyam Registration Portal or Udyam Assist Platform not only become eligible for Priority Sector Lending but also for schemes meant for MSMEs run by the Central Government and some State Governments.

With recently determined interventions from the Government of India to ensure affordable finance, accessible technology, and the availability of domestic and international markets, the sector has undoubtedly made great strides.

While during 2000-2023, as many as 70.7 lakh guarantees worth ₹4.27 lakh crore were given under the Credit Guarantee Scheme for Micro and Small Enterprises (MSEs), during 2023-2025, there were 44.39 lakh guarantees worth ₹5.08 lakh crore, indicating larger coverage of enterprises in a shorter period and a higher average guarantee amount. Recent reports corroborate the accomplishments of the sector. Niti Aayog's report, released in May 2025, states that the share of MSEs accessing credit through scheduled banks rose from 14 per cent in 2020 to 20 per cent in 2024. The share of Medium Enterprises increased from 4 per cent to 9 per cent during the same time. SIDBI's survey report for May 2025 elucidates affirmative findings. 90 per cent of the survey respondents claimed to be using digital payments. 18 per cent had benefited from digital lending platforms. While one-third of the respondents stated that they had adopted at least some form of sustainable practice, an equal proportion also mentioned that limited awareness was the main hindrance to adopt ing sustainable practices. Mandatory procurement of CPSEs from MSEs gives enterprises the comfort of certainty. While in 2023-24, CPSEs procured ₹74,828 crore from MSEs, the corresponding figure in 2024-25 grew by 25 per cent to ₹93.697 crore.

In recognition of the achievements of MSMEs, National Awards for MSMEs have been instituted to encourage entrepreneurship and enthuse potential risk-takers to emerge as successful entrepreneurs.

The MSME Day is more than just a celebration; it is a vital call for action to strengthen this essential pillar of economies around the world. Awareness among all stakeholders, robust and integrated central databases, strengthened digital public infrastructure for addressing various issues faced by MSMEs, including access to finance, academia-industry collaboration for effective technology transfer and incentives for adopting green technologies are some steps that will cement the role of MSMEs in designing sustainable Viksit Bharat.

Rate cuts to reforms: Fiscal policy must power India's growth engine

The Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) statement on June 6 announced a reduction in the Repo rate by 50 basis points to 5.50 per cent, cumulatively cutting the repo rate by 100 basis points since February.

It also surprised the economy by reducing the Cash Reserve Ratio (CRR) by 100 basis points to 3 per cent. This expansionary monetary policy (MP) move is expected to boost economic activity, as banks can borrow more and lend it to consumers and investors at lower interest rates. Following this, four public sector banks have already reduced the repo-related lending rates. The reduction in CRR further supports the lending spree, as it would release ₹2.5 lakh crore, giving banks further impetus to lend.

MP could choose to be accommodative, as the inflation rate has been at a comfortable target level of an average of 4 per cent, and the outlook for the year is being further revised downwards to 3.7 per cent.

Hence, inflation is not a major concern for now, but growth remains below expectation, with the projected growth for 2025-26 being 6.5 per cent, the same as the actual real growth in 2024-25.

With enough leverage provided to support growth, MPC has announced a reversal to a neutral stance for the future, and the economy cannot expect further cuts in the interest rate easily. With this future course of action of MP, they have set the ball rolling for fiscal policy (FP) measures to take the onus of stimulating growth.

The Government will now have to proactively take measures to ensure optimistic consumer, investor and producer confidence, the lifelines of a resilient economy. With the uncertainties looming due to expected tariff impositions from the US and subsequent trade wars, the Government has to be vigilant of even the smallest aberrations from the norm. On the revenue front, the Government had already reformed the income tax rate structure in this year's Union Budget, with tax exemptions, to boost consumption.

Additionally, there is an expectation of rationalisation and restructuring of the complex GST framework soon. The four-tier slab structure needs to be streamlined and simplified, which will help to incentivise consumption and production.

Further, the Government has planned its capital expenditure policy to lift the business mood. It has already front-loaded the capital expenditure in the current financial year, spending ₹1,59,790 crore in April, an increase of 61 per cent spent in the corresponding month of the previous year. The cost of Government borrowing, according to the RBI, has decreased over the years, releasing liquidity, which, if provided as loans to the states, with assured productive expenditure, can encourage consumption, and investment, and strengthen the macroeconomy.

On the global front, India is gaining strength, as global investors are shifting their manufacturing base to India, due to production link incentives, strong global supply chains, easing of business policies, low labour cost, and high demand, to name a few.

Further, the IMF World Economic Outlook (April 2025) shows India acquiring the status of the fourth-largest economy in the world, surpassing Japan in terms of nominal GDP as reported by BVR Subrahmanyam, Chief, Niti Aayog.

Analysts, however, caution that this does not guarantee the improvement in the internal socioeconomic issues such as poverty, health, education, large income inequalities, etc.With a neutral MP stance for the future, now the Government needs to play its cards well amidst the domestic and global uncertainties for a better-performing economy.

Conclusion

KAUR

The MPC's expansionary measures, including rate cuts and CRR reduction, aim to revive growth amidst subdued inflation. With monetary policy turning neutral, the spotlight shifts to fiscal policy. The Government must now drive momentum through tax reforms, GST rationalisation, and increased capital spending. Despite global headwinds, India's rising global stature and investor interest offer optimism. However, sustained progress depends on addressing domestic socioeconomic disparities while navigating uncertain global tides with prudent fiscal strategies.

Trump officials to give classified briefing on Iran strikes enators are set to meet with top national security officials on Thursday as many question President Donald Trump's decision to bomb three Iranian nuclear sites — and whether those strikes were ultimately successful.

The classified briefing, which was originally scheduled for Tuesday and was delayed. also comes as the Senate is expected to vote this week on a resolution that would require congressional approval if Trump decides to strike Iran again.

Democrats and some Republicans, have said that the White House overstepped its authority when it failed to seek the advice of Congress and they want to know more Trump relied on when he authorised the attacks.

"Senators deserve full transparency and the administration has a legal obligation to inform Congress precisely about what is happening," said Senate Democratic Leader Chuck Schumer, who said Tuesday that it was "outrageous" that the Senate and House briefings were postponed. "The bottom line is the commander in chief is the president, the military reports to the president, and the person empowered to act on the nation's behalf is the president," Johnson told reporters.

But some Republicans including some of Trump's staunchest supporters - are uncomfortable with the strikes and the potential for US involvement in an extended Middle East conflict.

"I think the speaker needs to review the Constitution," said Sen. Rand Paul, R-Ky. "And I that our Founding Fathers did not want presidents to unilaterally go to war."

Paul would not say if he is voting for the resolution by Sen. Tim Kaine, D-Va, that would require congressional approval for specific military action in Iran. The resolution is likely to fail as 60 votes would be needed to pass it and Republicans have a 53-47 majority. But Kaine says it's important to put the Senate on the record.

EU meets to discuss Russia

◄he heads of the European Union's (EU) 27 member nations will meet on Thursday in Brussels to discuss tougher sanctions on Russia, ways to prevent painful new US tariffs and how to make their voices heard in the Middle East conflicts.

Most of the leaders will arrive from a brief but intense NATO summit where they pledged a big boost in defense spending, and papered over some of their differences with US President Donald Trump. Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy will join the EU summit by videoconference, after meeting Trump on Wednesday.

US-led NATO downgraded Ukraine from a top priority to a side player this week, but Russia's war in Ukraine remains of paramount concern for the EU. Members will be discussing an 18th round of sanctions against Russia and whether to maintain a price cap on Russian oil, measures that some nations oppose because it

Meanwhile, Trump's threatened tariffs are weighing on the EU, which negotiates trade deals on behalf of all 27 member countries. He lashed out at Spain on Wednesday for not spending more on defense and suggested yet more tariffs. France's president called Trump to task for starting a trade war with longtime allies.

European leaders are also concerned about fallout from climate leadership in favour of the wars in the Middle East, and the EU is pushing to revive diplomatic negotiations with Iran over its nuclear programme. EU members have internal disagreements to overcome. They are divided over what to do about European policy toward Israel because of its conduct in Gaza

California must change transgender policies: US

⊣he Trump administration said on Wednesday that California must change its policies allowing transgender girls to compete on sports teams consistent with their gender identity.

The US Department of Education said it determined California's education department and governing body for high school sports are violating Title IX, a federal law banning sex discrimination in education.

The federal Government said California must agree to change its policies in 10 days or "risk imminent enforcement action."

The administration could otherwise refer the state to the US Justice Department, the Education Department said.

California, though, said it has no plans to change its poli-"The California Department of Education believes all students should have the opportunity to learn and play at school and we have consistently applied existing law in support of students' rights to do so," agency spokesperson Liz Sanders said in a statement.

US Education Secretary Linda McMahon invoked Democratic Governor Gavin Newsom's remarks on his podcast in March questioning the fairness of trans girls competing in girls sports. "The Trump Administration will relentlessly enforce Title IX protections for women and girls, and our findings today make clear that California has failed to adhere to its obligations under federal law," she said in a statement.

She told Fox News the agency may pull federal funding if the state does not comply.

The Education Department said the state should apologise and restore awards to girls who lost sports titles to trans athletes, and notify school sports programmes that receive federal funding that Title IX prohibits trans girls from participating in girls sports. The announcement comes weeks after a trans student athlete garnered national attention over her participation in the California high school state track and field championship. The student, Hernandez, placed first in the girls high jump and triple jump and second in the long jump. The California Interscholastic Federation, which ran the meet, awarded gold and silver medals to both Hernandez and other competitors who would have placed had she not participated. It was the first time the federation made such a rule The issue is part of a nationwide battle over the rights of transgender youth in which states have limited transgender girls from participating on girls sports teams, barred gender-affirming surgeries for minors and required parents to be notified if a child changes their pronouns at states have laws barring transgender women and girls from participating in certain sports competitions. Some of the policies have been blocked in Former California Gov Jerry Brown signed a law in 2013 allowing students to participate in sex-segregated school programmes, including on sports teams and use bathrooms and other facilities that align with their gender identity.

Newsom spokesperson Izzy Gardon said McMahon's threat to pull federal funding over the state's policy was "dramatic, fake and completely divorced from reality." The California Interscholastic Federation declined to respond to the announcement, saying it does not comment on legal matters.

The federation is violating the US Constitution by allowing trans girls to compete in sex-segregated sports consistent with their gender identity, said Harmeet Dhillon, US assistant attorney general for civil rights, in a letter after the state track and field finals.

The California Family Council, a conservative group that opposes trans girls' competition in girls sports, applauded the federal government's findings Wednesday. "This decision is a critical

step toward restoring fairness and protecting the integrity of girls' sports in our state," Sophia Lorey, an advocate for the group, said in a statement. But Equality California, an LGBTQ+ advocacy organisation, said the findings were a "dangerous distortion of Title IX and a direct attack on transgender youth in California."

"Let's be clear: this isn't about fairness in sports and never has been — it's about a federal administration weaponising civil rights laws to target transgender students and force California to comply with their hateful antitransgender agenda," Tony Hoang, the group's executive director, said in a statement.

accused of allegedly plotting to overthrow the government as tensions soared ahead of a major anti-Government rally planned this weekend in the capital Belgrade.

Police said six were detained on Wednesday evening, suspected of "preparing criminal acts against the constitutional order and security of Serbia" and "calling for violent change of the constitutional order".

At least one other university student was arrested earlier this week accused of preparing "an act of terrorism" based on his private conversations over a mobile phone.

Hundreds on Thursday demonstrated against the arrest in Belgrade. Protesting university students have called Saturday's rally to press their demand for an early election after nearly eight months of almost daily anti-corruption demonstrations that have shaken the populist government of President Aleksandar Vucic.

Persistent protests started in November after a renovated rail

Vucic and his right-wing Serbian Progressive Party have refused the students' demand for a snap vote, instead accusing the protesters of planning to spur violence at Saturday's gathering.

Police alleged the detained group met last week in a hotel in the central town of Kraljevo to plan a violent change of government and attacks on police and pro-government media outlets. One of the suspects had a gun and ammunition, they said. No other details were immediately available. Serbian media reported that those arrested include an opposition politician, veteran of the wars of the 1990s, and others.

he Food and Drug Administration (FDA) said Wednesday it has expanded existing warnings on the two leading COVID-19 vaccines about a rare heart side effect mainly seen in young men. Myocarditis, a type of heart inflammation that is usually mild, emerged as a complication after the first shots became widely available in 2021.

Prescribing information from both Pfizer and Moderna already advises doctors about the issue.

In April, the FDA sent letters to both drugmakers asking them to update and expand the warnings to add more detail about the problem and to cover a larger group of patients.

While the FDA can mandate label changes, the process is often more of a negotiation with companies.

Specifically, the new warning lists the risk of myocarditis as eight cases per 1 million people who got the 2023-2024 COVID-19 shots between the ages of six months and 64 years old. The label also notes that the problem has been most common among males aged 12 to 24. The previous label said the problem mostly occurs in 12- to 17-year-olds.

The FDA's labelling change appears to conflict with some prior findings of scientists else-detected in Government vaccine injury databases for COVID-19 shots dating back to 2022. Officials also noted that cases tend to resolve quickly and are less severe that those associated with COVID-19 infection itself, which can also cause myocarditis. The FDA announcement came as new vaccine advisers appointed by Health Secretary Kennedy met to debate the continuing use of COVID-19 vaccines for key groups, including pregnant women and children.

It's the first meeting of the CDC advisory panel since Kennedy abruptly dismissed all 17 members of the group, naming a new panel that includes several members with a histo-

The seven-count indictment unsealed in Brooklyn charges Macías and an unidentified co-defendant with international cocaine distribution, conspiracy and weapons counts, including smuggling firearms from the United States.

Los Choneros employed people to buy firearms, components and ammunition in the United States and smuggle them into Ecuador, according to the indictment. Cocaine would flow into the United States with the help of Mexican cartels.

"Los Choneros operated a vast network responsible for the shipment and distribution of multi-ton quantities of cocaine from South America through Central America and Mexico to the United States and elsewhere," the indictment says.

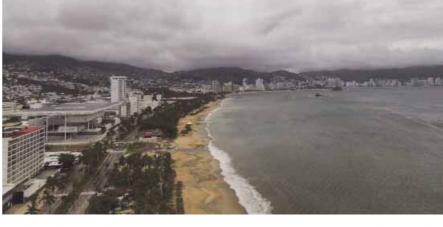

Afro-Mexican communities in US devastated by Hurricane Erick fro-descendant communities along ⚠ Mexico's Pacific coast are calling on President Claudia Sheinbaum's administration for an immediate response a week after Hurricane Erick, saying poorer and predominantly Black communities have been disproportionately impacted by hurricanes over the past three years.

these communities to appeal for help and aid supplies on social media, highlighting the hurricane's aftermath as further evidence of the historic neglect faced by ethnic minorities in Mexico and the disproportionate impact of the climate crisis on some of the most vulnerable communities. Thailand bans cannabis sales without prescription hailand is further tightening control of cannabis by banning sales of the plant to those without prescriptions. Thailand became the first country in Asia to decriminalise cannabis in 2022, in a move that boosted Thailand's tourism and farming, and spawned thousands of shops. But the country has faced public backlash over allegations that under-regulation has made the drug available to children and caused addiction. Health Minister Somsak Thepsutin signed an order Monday that bans shops from selling cannabis to customers without a prescription. It also seeks to reclassify cannabis buds as a controlled herb.

Phanurat Lukboon, secretary-general of the Office of the Narcotics Control Board, said on Wednesday that his agency is ready to study and implement the change in regulations.

The order will take effect when it is published in the Royal Gazette, although it was unclear when that would happen.

The ruling Pheu Thai Party previously promised to criminalise the drug again, but faced strong resistance from its former partner in the coalition government, the Bhumjaithai Party, which supported the decriminalisation.

tion last week over a leaked phone call between Prime Paetongtarn Minister Shinawatra and former Cambodian leader Hun Sen.

Somsak told reporters Tuesday that he would like to relist cannabis as a narcotic in the future. The move came after officials last month revealed that cannabis smuggling cases involving tourists had soared in recent months.

Phanurat said that a study done by his agency last year found the number of people addicted to cannabis had spiked significantly after it was decriminalised.

Government spokesperson Jirayu Houngsab said in a statement Tuesday that the government ordered the Health Ministry to tighten control on sales of cannabis because "many shops opened to sell cannabis both for recreational and medical purposes, allowing easy access for children and general people, which contradicts the government's purpose to crack down on drugs".

A group of cannabis advocates said Wednesday that the change in regulations was politically motivated.

Swiftly pass on rate cut to customers: RBI to banks

RBI report has suggested that all banks should bring down Ltheir lending rates for speedy transmission of the policy rate, which was lowered by 50 basis points earlier this month. An article published in the Reserve Bank's June Bulletin stressed that the financial conditions remained conducive to facilitating an efficient transmission of rate cuts.

Most of the banks have already passed on the rate cuts. It may be mentioned here that several large banks, including SBI, Bank of Baroda, and HDFC Bank, have already passed on the benchmark lending rate-linked interest rate to borrowers by the same margin within days of the RBI cutting repo rate by a jumbo 50 bps on June 6. Besides reducing the repo rate by 50 bps earlier this month, the RBI had announced a reduction in the cash reserve ratio (CRR) by 100 bps to 3 per cent of net release primary liquidity of demand and time liabilities (NDTL) in a staggered manner during the latter half of the year.

"Financial conditions remained conducive to facilitate an efficient transmission of rate cuts to the credit market," said an article on 'State of the Economy' in the Reserve Bank's June 2025 Bulletin.

The reduction in CRR would the views of the Reserve Bank of India. The article noted that the 50-bps cut in the policy repo rate during February-April 2025 reflected in banks' repo-linked external benchmark-based lending rates (EBLRs) and marginal cost of funds-based lending Consequently, the weighted average lending rate (WALR) on fresh and outstanding rupee loans of banks declined by 6 bps and 17 bps, respectively, during the period February-April 2025.

On the deposit side, the weighted average domestic term deposit rates (WADTDRs) on fresh and outstanding deposits moderated by 27 bps and 1 bp, respectively, during the same

According to the article, during the current easing cycle (February-April 2025), the decline in the WALR on fresh rupee loans was marginally higher for public sector banks (PSBs) as compared to private

Build trust into governance: Rapido co-founder

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA New Delhi

Rapido's co-founder Pavan Guntupalli believes 'trust' is a critical currency in building lasting businesses, and said founders must embed it into every aspect of their company from governance to product design and daily operations.

Guntupalli said in an interview that the founders of Rapido have middle-class roots, something that has deeply shaped their understanding of value and customer pain-points. "Not just in the corporate governance aspect, but also in the aspect of your product, of the way we are running business, the key important ingredient for long-term foundation and growth is trust, earning the trust of your captains (drivers), users, and stakeholders," Guntupalli said in a recent interview. Trust, he said, cannot be 'binary' and must be upheld with consistent efforts to ensure total, and not partial, success. His advice to founders: Take every step after considering if it is going to hurt the trust of stakeholders.

"That's the kind of a filter question that I would like all of us to ask. And that is something we ask ourselves every single time we do something," he said. Guntupalli was responding to a question on the advice he would give startup founders in the backdrop of corporate governance issues that have confronted the space in the recent past, with instances of weak oversight, unchecked founder dominance, and lack of

In the latest of the high-decibel cases, Gensol Engineering, its promoters and ride-hailing services BluSmart Mobility (promoted by Anmol Singh Jaggi) faced regulatory heat over alleged fund diversions and corporate governance lapses. On the practices that he believes startups must embrace for upholding high standards of governance, Guntupalli said as a large gig economy job creator in the country, Rapido has always been of the view that it gle day we already feel a responsibility both towards our users, towards our captains (drivers), and towards our stakeholders who have been a part of this journey," he said.

Guntupalli further noted that "... In our governance, whether or not we are fundraising, we make sure our audits are done by external and verified third parties. And our boardroom discussions are definitely a lot more deeper, wherein we discuss not just growth numbers, but also profitability, which is also one of the reasons why as a company, we have been able to maintain both growth as well as prof-

On innovation, another major touchpoint for the startup space, Guntupalli said for him innovation is not merely the final product but rather "the entire journey". Founded in 2015 by founders Guntupalli, Aravind Sanka, and Rishikesh SR, Rapido has been expanding its integrated mobility portfolio over the years, and now provides bike taxis, auto-rickshaws, and cab services across more than 250 cities, offering over 4 million rides daily.

Thile completing a master's degree in V data analysis, Palwasha Zahid moved from Dallas to a town near Silicon Valley. The location made it easy to visit the campuses of tech stalwarts such as Google, Apple and Nvidia.

Žahid, 25, completed her studies in December, but so far she hasn't found a job in the industry that surrounds her.

"It stings a little bit," she said. "I never imagined it would be this difficult just to get a foot in the door.

Young people graduating from college this spring and summer are facing one of the toughest job markets in more than a decade. The unemployment rate for degree holders ages 22 to 27 has reached its highest level in a dozen years, excluding the coronavirus pandemic. Joblessness among that group is now higher than the overall unemployment rate, and the gap is larger than it has been in more than three decades. The rise in unemployment has worried many economists as well as officials at the Federal Reserve because it could be an early sign of trouble for the economy. It suggests businesses are holding off on hiring new workers because of rampant uncertainty stemming from the Trump administration's tariff increases, which could slow growth.

Young people are bearing the brunt of a lot of economic uncertainty," Brad Hersbein, senior economist at the Upjohn Institute, a labour-focused think tank, said. "The people that you often are most hesitant in hiring when economic conditions are uncertain are entrylevel positions."

The growth of artificial intelligence may be playing an additional role by eating away at positions for beginners in white-collar professions such as information technology, finance, and law.

Higher unemployment for younger graduates has also renewed concerns about the value of a college degree. More workers than ever have a fouryear degree, which makes it less of a distinguishing factor in job applications. Murat Tasci, an economist at JPMorgan, calculates that 45 per cent of workers have a four-year degree, up from 26 per cent in 1992.

While the difficulty of finding work has demoralised young people like Zahid, most economists argue that holding a college degree still offers clear lifetime benefits.

Graduates earn higher pay and experience much less unemployment over their lifetimes.

The overall US unemployment rate is a still-low 4.2 per cent, and the Government's monthly jobs reports show the economy is generating modest job gains. But the additional jobs are concentrated in health care, Government, and restaurants and hotels. Job gains in professions with more college grads, such as information technology, legal services, and accounting have languished in the past 12 months.

The unemployment rate has stayed low mostly because layoffs are still relatively rare. The actual hiring rate — new hires as a percentage of all jobs has fallen to 2014 levels, when the unemployment rate was much higher, at 6.2 per cent. Economists call it a no-hire, no-fire economy. For college graduates 22 to 27 years old, the unemployment rate was 5.8 per cent in March — the highest, excluding the pandemic, since 2012, and far above the nationwide rate.

Lexie Lindo, 23, saw how reluctant companies were to hire while applying for more than 100 jobs last summer and fall after graduating from Clark Atlanta University with a business degree and 3.8 GPA. She had several summer internships in fields such as logistics and real estate while getting her degree, but no offer came.

Nobody was taking interviews or responding back to any applications that I filled out," Lindo, who is from Auburn, Georgia, said. "My resume is full, there's no gaps or anything. Every summer I'm doing something. It's just, OK, so what else are you looking for?"

She has returned to Clark for a master's program in supply chain studies and has an internship this summer at a Fortune 500 company in Austin, Texas. She's hopeful it will lead to a job

Artificial intelligence could be a culprit, particularly in IT. Matthew Martin, senior US economist at Oxford Economics, has calculated that employment for college graduates 28 and above in computer science and mathematical occupations has increased a slight 0.8 per cent since 2022. For those ages 22 to 27, it has fallen 8 per cent, according to

Pre-poll sops to women to hit ₹1 lakh crore in FY26: Report ¬op 18 States will spend ₹1 lakh crore on prepoll sops to women this fiscal, Crisil Ratings said on Thursday. States' spending on social sector schemes will be at an elevated 2 per cent of GSDP (Gross State Domestic Product) in FY26 and is likely to impact capital expenditure, it added.

The social sector spends used to be in the range of 1.4-1.6 per cent of GSDP between fiscals 2019 and 2024, and climbed up to 2 per cent last fiscal, the rating agency said.

Imported coal, scrap shortage among challenges for steel sector: Report

However, the sector faces several challenges, including the need for iron ore beneficiation, an 85 per cent dependency on imported coking coal, limited availability of steel scrap, and high CO2 emission intensity in the steelmaking process," MP Financial Advisory Services LLP said

Additionally, external headwinds such as low-cost imports from China, EU safeguard duties, and impending carbon tariffs pose further risks to the industry's growth trajectory. High logistics costs accompanied by the timeconsuming process for obtaining approvals for green field projects and a higher cost of financing when compared to China, the largest steel producer, further pose challenges towards the desired steel capacities, it said.

It further said while there are challenges, the steel capacity target would be achieved through a multi-pronged strategy, dependent on five critical levers—accelerated ture and raw material linkage improvements, clean technology adoption, policy reform for financing and approvals and a strong public-private execution

"Overcoming resource, policy, and trade challenges through innovation and sustainability will be key to positioning India as a global hub for green and specialty steel, supporting its 5 trillion dollar economy vision," Mahendra Patil, Founder and Managing Partner at MP Financial Advisory Services LLP, said.

NSE to launch electricity futures

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA New Delh

⊣he National Stock Exchange (NSE) on Thursday said it will launch electricity futures contract — a product which will allow power buyers, sellers, traders, industrial and retailers to manage price risks — in the next 2-3 weeks.

"We have all approvals in place...We are talking to all stakeholders. Our internal team is fully prepared...Within 2-3 weeks we will announce the launch date," NSE head of sustainability, power, carbon markets and listing Harish K Ahuja said. The electricity futures contract will become functional on the NSE within a few days of the announcement of the launch date. The monthly contract will be available throughout the year, he said, adding, it will commence on the first business day of every month and expire a day before the contract ends. To promote the product, Chief Business Development Officer Sriram Krishnan said the exchange plans to waive off transaction charges on trading of electricity futures contracts for the first six months after launch. The lot size of the one-tract will be 50 MWh, which is equivalent to 50,000 units of electricity in one contract.

The price will be decided by taking the 30-day weighted average spot price of the three energy exchanges — Indian Energy Exchange Ltd, Hindustan Power Exchange Ltd and HPL Electric and

The monthly electricity contracts will have 50MWh as the trading unit, ₹1 per MWh as tick size and the maximum order size of 2,500 MWh.

Besides, the NSE is exploring a contract for difference (CfD) that enables renewable projects to achieve stable revenue.

Last month, NSE received approval from the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) to launch monthly electricity futures contracts. India's journey toward achieving its net-zero emissions target demands substantial investment, estimated at over $250 billion year-on-year till 2047 as per the Niti Aayog report. By 2030, renewable energy sources such as solar and wind are expected to contribute over 50 per cent of the nation's installed power capacity. A robust and dynamic electricity derivatives market is essential to attract this scale of climate finance from both domestic and global investors.

he Ishavasya Upanishad is the first and one of the shortest yet most profound Upanishads, forming a cornerstone of Vedantic philosophy. It has just 18 mantras, which hold the essence of Indian spiritual philosophy.

It says that the entire universe is pervaded by the divine (Isha), and that one should enjoy life through renunciation rather than attachment. It explores the tension and harmony between action and renunciation, the path of knowledge (jnana) and the path of work (karma), and culminates in a call for self-realisation through surrender to the divine truth within all beings. At its core, the Ishavasya Upanishad asks a simple question: How can we live in the world, act in it, and vision of oneness, detachment, and duty, which has influenced thinkers from Adi Shankaracharya to Mahatma Gandhi.

The book by wellknown writer Swami Mukundananda's explores this aspect in depth and in simple yet profound way describes the rather complex and difficult postulates of Ishavasya Upanishad. Of course, the book is not meant for everyone only those who have interest in philosophy and are keen to understand the Indian approach to

His commentary does not merely explain the verses; it is an attempt to interpret Upanishads and their timeless wisdom in the modern context so it becomes more relatable and understandable.

Swami Mukundananda begins each mantra with a Sanskrit verse, a transliteration, and a translation, before offering a detailed exposition. He weaves together traditional interpretations, philosophical context from the broader paced, success-oriented societies.

It is therefore very important for any book on such subjects to rather thread bear such concepts for the understanding of the seeker. This is where the book scores high. The way the book addresses the paradoxes of the Upanishadsuch as the co-existence of knowledge and ignorance, or action and renunciation-by drawing on the Bhagavad Gita and other Vedantic texts. This integrative approach enriches the reader's understanding reflects Swami Mukundananda's broad spiritual vision.

Swami Mukundananda's Ishavasya Upanishad is not just a commentary on Ishavasya Upanishad; it is a spiritual guidebook. By unpacking dense metaphysical ideas with clarity and heart, he transforms a terse and ancient text into a luminous manual for modern spiritual living. The book speaks to today's thinking individual navigating chaos and craving clarity. Whether you are a student of Vedanta, a spiritual seeker, or simply someone yearning for inner peace and purpose, this book offers timeless insights with immediate relevance. This 183page book is both a gateway and a journey into the heart of Vedic wisdom for all those who are drawn to Vedic literature but are daunted by its complexity. This book would be must read for them.

FOR THE MODERN SEEKER

reads like a quiet, thoughtful conversation with a teacher who understands the pulse of both the seeker and the sceptic. This is a book that brings the spirit of the ancient text into focus without overwhelming the reader. The explanations flow with clarity, offering space for reflection rather than preaching. His thoughts on living with detachment, while staying true to duty, feel especially relevant in a world that rarely slows down. The writing feels anchored, honest, and deeply rooted in the Indian spiritual tradition. For readers curious about . Vedanta or looking to engage with the Upanishads in a meaningful way, this book provides a steady path. The author doesn not rush through the verses, he pauses, interprets and draws from a wider spiritual canvas including the Bhagavad Gita and Vedic thought. This is a reflective, gentle guide that encourages the reader to look inward. The approach stays respectful to the text while making space for modern understanding.

The Road to Freedom Is Never Quite Straight

Amidst 1947 India's chaos, an intelligence officer races against time in a riveting espionage thriller, says SAKSHI PRIYA

magine standing on a precipice, one foot in the dying embers of colonial rule, the other trembling on the brink of an unknown, independent future. What if India's independence had begun with a devastating explosion instead of a midnight speech? What if one man, living between two worlds, stood as the last defence against chaos? This is the question that drives The Greatest Game by Stephen Alter, a historical espionage novel set in the charged and volatile weeks of March 1947, when the subcontinent teetered on the edge of freedom and division. Kimball O'Hara, the protagonist first introduced to the world in Rudyard Kipling's Kim, returns here as a seasoned intelligence officer in the Imperial Secret Service. No longer a playful street urchin, he is now older, weathered and deeply embedded in the dangerous world of espionage. In a country burning with communal riots and growing distrust, Kim finds himself racing against time to prevent an assassination that could shatter India before it takes its first steps as an independent nation.

The story opens in Lahore, where Kim is nearly killed in an attempted assassination. Riding his Norton motorbike through the curfew-bound city, he is ambushed near the Victoria Memorial. The air is thick with the fear and tension that defined those final months before Partition. The attack sets in motion a larger mission, uncovering a plot by Sir Denys Bromley-Pugh, a British officer and Nazi sympathiser, to bomb a Congress rally where Jawaharlal Nehru is expected to speak. If the plan succeeds, the dream of a united India may die before it is realised. From the very first chapter, Alter captures the sights, sounds and smells of pre-independence India with stunning clarity. Yet there is also a deep loneliness in him. Having grown up between two cultures, Kim belongs fully to neither. His understanding of India is intimate, but his position as a British agent isolates him from the very people he tries to protect. The novel follows him through safe houses, train journeys, Government buildings and crowded markets. Each location is brought to life with unforced detail. The journey by train from Lahore to Amritsar during a violent mob attack stands out as one of the most harrowing sections of the book. The fear of passengers locked inside, the threat of fire, the confusion and panic, all are rendered with care and control. The Greatest Game is a powerful and intelligent novel set during one of the most turbulent periods in Indian history. With O'Hara at its heart, Alter has created a story of espionage and survival.

ALLEGIANCE AND BURDEN

Through Kim's journey, the story explores the burden of allegiance and the cost of belief. There is no illusion of clear good and evil. The enemy wears a British uniform, but so does Kim. The people he must save include both the hopeful and

PLEASE SCORE DOUBLE HUNDREDS: RAVICHANDRAN ASHWIN TO PANT

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

ndia should focus on extending their batting time and Rishabh pant must convert his hundreds into double centuries against an "average" England attack in the ongoing Test series, said senior off-spinner Ravichandran Ashwin in his detailed post-mortem of the team's five-wicket loss in the lung-opener at Leeds.

Despite five centuries from their batters across both innings, India allowed England to chase their second highest target of 371 to concede a 0-1 lead in the five-match series.

"One thing that the Indian team's batting can focus on is in every innings, can you extend your batting with time — not by runs. Increase the amount of time England is fielding and increase the amount of time you keep them on the field,"Ashwin said on his YouTube channel Ash Ki Baat.

"...I will say one thing — don't panic and change drastically. India could and might level the series in the next Test. But if we don't understand the tactics England are using, this series could very well go away from us quickly."

Ashwin stressed that the game slipped out of India's hands the moment they were bowled out early on the fourth day. "When you didn't extend your batting into Day 5, the game was over. This England team has openly advertised that they will go for the target whatever may be the target. So as a batting lineup, we've to keep in mind that we have to give them less time but give a pigger target," he explained.

"If you want to set a target, you will have to keep a minimum of 400-450. I would say 450 with as little time as possible is the best way to win a Test match in England at this point of time. If the wicket is such."

COMPARE PANT WITH KOHLI NOT DHONI

Lauding the twin centuries by Pant, Ashwin said comparing him to Mahendra Singh Dhoni was not appropriate, as the latter never batted at the reasonably high Number 5 position.

"Rishabh Pant should be compared with the likes of Virat Kohli...He is a mainstream batter. Because he has got so much time," he said.

Ashwin compared Pant's ability to pick a delivery with Pakistani great Inzamam-ul-

"Some of these special batters have that knack of picking the ball early. They pick the line quickly, pick the length quickly and they get into lovely positions. Rishabh Pant is one of those rare players who has got that special skill," he Hailing Pant's twin centuries as a rare feat, Ashwin suggested that the wicketkeeper-batter should look to stretch those efforts further.

"Rishabh has had a fabulous game as a batter. But I would like to repeat that Rishabh has got a great defence. There is not one shot in the book that he cannot play. "Can I request you to make a double 100 next time when you're batting at 130? Because, you know that lower order doesn't mean more contribution. So, in your situation, I request you to please take the team to the last day." He also requested Pant to avoid his now famous front flips especial-

"I've only one request, please don't do that front flip. In Tests, our body gets tired unlike in IPL where you will not play more than 50-60 balls. He is a bona fide top batter in the Indian lineup. So he has noth-

KULDEEP MUST PLAY

Calling Kuldeep Yadav an "artist", Ashwin strongly advocated his inclusion for the second Test beginning July 2 in Birmingham.

"I want to see how England go about when they face him. If Kuldeep can get you a 3/100 and reduce the first-inning score to 350, then you have a lead of 125," he said.

"I 100 per cent believed that Kuldeep had a role and he would be a decisive factor. If Kuldeep had played, it might have been a different game."

Ashwin also defended Yashasvi Jaiswal, who dropped multiple chances at slip, calling for perspective.

Jaiswal has been one of the most improved fielders in the slip cordon. The Dukes ball feels a little bigger and harder. So, that feel is very important. You know how much sledging is done by the crowd. So, I do feel for Yashasvi."

CREATE ROUGHS FOR SPINNERS

Ashwin also pointed to a subtle yet crucial aspect of Test match strategy that he felt India missed in Leeds -- the creation of rough patches on the pitch to aid the spinners. 'We should try and create more rough patches. If you had England bowling fourth, you would have seen a lot more scuff marks on the pitch," he pointed out.

Shikhar debuts as author, pens memoir

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

washbuckling former Sopening batsman Shikhar Dhawan has come out with his memoir in which he bares it all - from his relationships to friendships, to all the controversies surrounding him, be it off or on the field. "Cricket gave me purpose, but it was the journey with the highs, the falls and the quiet moments, that truly shaped me as a man I am today. This is me sharing that journey from the heart — raw, honest and unfiltered," Dhawan said about his book "The One: Cricket, My Life and More".

"Written with candour and sincerity, The One offers an unprecedented glimpse into Shikhar Dhawan's inner monologue and all the vulnerabilities that have shaped him into the champion cricketer and sensihuman he is today," publishers

HarperCollins India said. According to Sachin Sharma, publisher at HarperCollins India, "Shikhar Dhawan has lived an incredible life both on and off the field. In this unputdownable memoir, Shikhar has opened up about his life, cricket, relationships, and every curveball that he faced and emerged stronger."

Growing up in the intensely competitive cricketing scene of Delhi, Dhawan started out as a wicketkeeper but later transitioned to an opening batsman. He played 34 Tests for India scoring 2315 runs, 167 ODIs (6793 runs) and 68 T20 matches (1759 runs).

"When I was trying to break into the Indian side, social media was still nascent and cricketers were under a lot less scrutiny. But other media platforms - print and broadcast were thriving," he writes in the book. "Team selections and individual cricket performances were discussed threadbare and in the country. However, unlike the current times in which social media can transform cricketers from 'hero' to 'zero' almost overnight, narratives took a lot longer to change back in those days," he says.

Talking about his entry into the Indian dressing room, he said when Australia came to India for a short tour in October 2010, "that's when I received my long-awaited call to join the big boys".

Dhawan also writes that when he first saw Mahendra Singh Dhoni, "I wanted to cast him in a Bollywood movie; he looked like a film star with that long hair and easy smile". He added: "We were having had gained sufficient audience a chat about my motivation when I suddenly blurted out, I want to play for India and I want to make you a Bollywood hero!' He threw back his head and laughed." Though he was chosen for the three ODIs, the first and third matches in Kochi and Margao were washed out.

"Before the first match in Kochi, there was so much nervous energy bubbling inside me that I could not sleep the whole night. But when I got up in the morning, it was raining heavily, and all my hopes turned to nought. No action was possible that day," Dhawan writes.

"Then, just ahead of the second ODI at Vizag, I took a sleeping pill to soothe my nerves. I thought it was important to sleep well, and I was worried that my performance would suffer if I went through another round of insomnia as I had done on the eve of the first
